BELOVED DAUGHTER

Laida is four months pregnant. Both, she and her partner, Martin, experience the pregnancy with extraordinary excitement. Laida's father lives with them in the same house. Old Tomas is a surly and cantankerous man who always seems to be angry, whiny, jealous, sometimes childlike, and almost always mischievous.

However, one day everything changes. Laida loses the baby. That's when Tomas, her father, noticing the suffering of his beloved daughter, decides to bring out the best of him to help her. He tries his best, with all his tenderness, and all his imagination.

"A theater of the everyday, a theatre of emotions, again a little masterpiece. Without any need for words, with a perfect script, impeccably careful staging, and with an exquisite and precise interpretation of these three big actors: Ana Meabe and Javier Renobales, joined by another great actor, José Ramón Soroiz. Jokin Oregi, author and director of the play, once again shows us he is one of the great present-day creators, possessing a great sensitivity capable of making shows that thrill and move both little 5 to 6 year-olds, a demonstrated fact, as well as adolescents, youngsters and adults of all ages. Do not miss it."
